

Five versions, because no two people introduce themselves the same way. Teachers included.

Elementary

Big lines, a self-portrait frame, favorites a kindergartner can finish.

Teens

An introduction that respects the reader. No clip art, no baby fonts.

Symbol supported

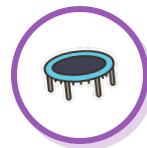

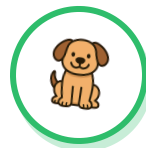

Circle, point, stamp, or glue. For students who do not write yet, including AAC users.

For the IEP team

A parent-voice one-pager that introduces your child before the paperwork does.

All about your teacher

You introduce yourself too. Fill it out and post it for meet-the-teacher night, or send it home on day one.

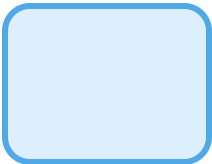

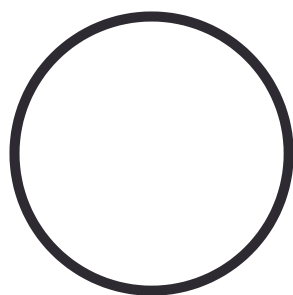

Back to school • First-week icebreaker • Sub folder • Counseling • Speech & OT • IEP meetings • Student portfolios •

Morning work

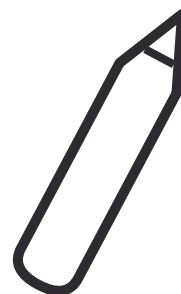

All about little me!

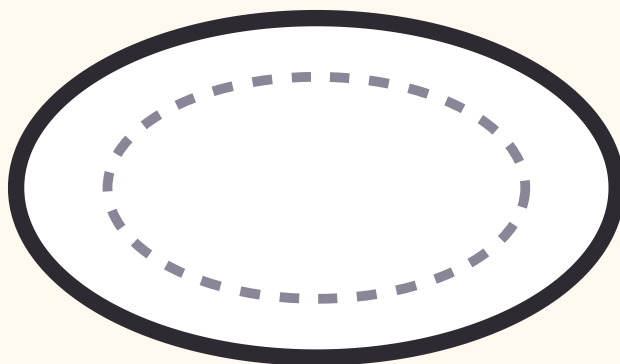

I am  years old! ★

Draw your face!

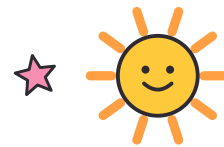

Color your favorite color!

Draw your favorite food on the plate!

Grown-ups: label anything they tell you about. Their words, your handwriting.

All about me!

My name is first name is plenty

I am age

My birthday is month and day

My favorites

My favorite color

★ _____

My favorite food

★ _____

My favorite animal

★ _____

This is me! draw your amazing self

I am really good at

This year I want to learn

My people!

Draw your family!

The people in my family are...

My pets (real or wished-for!)

A friend I love to play with

Something my family loves to do together

Here's the short version

Two minutes. Honest answers only.

Name

Grade

What I go by

Three things I'm into right now

Something I'm good at that school never asks about

What I want teachers to know about me

One goal for this year

I work best...

☐ On my own

☐ With one partner

☐ In a group

☐ With music or headphones

☐ Somewhere quiet

The user manual for me

Every good device ships with one.

What helps me focus

What stresses me out

How I recharge after a hard day

Something I'm proud of that isn't on a report card

Why this page exists: Nobody can read your mind, and the adults who want to help guess wrong without instructions. Two honest minutes here saves months of being misread.

Circle what you love!

Circle it, point to it, stamp it, or glue it. Every way counts.

★ Foods I love

Apple

Banana

Nuggets

Juice

Milk

★ How I like to play

Swing

Trampoline

Puzzle

Blocks

Music

★ More things I love

Dog

Cat

Ball

Car

Book

For the adult helping: Students can circle, point, stamp, or glue. A choice counts however it is made. For AAC users, model the symbol on their device first, then let them mark the page.

My school day!

Circle it, point to it, stamp it, or draw your own.

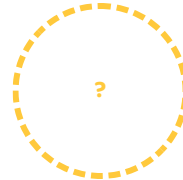

★ How I get to school

Bus

Car

Draw it!

★ At school I love

Recess

Lunch

Library

Gym

Art

★ In my backpack

Backpack

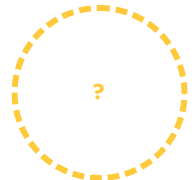

Lunchbox

Notebook

Crayons

Draw it!

For the adult helping: Students can circle, point, stamp, or glue. A choice counts however it is made. For AAC users, model the symbol on their device first, then let them mark the page.